- Increase well-being of elders
- Increase “creative confidence” among staff & volunteers

- Support family and community members who may be struggling to connect with their loved ones.

HOW CAN I USE MY CONSULTATION TIME WITH TIMESLIPS STAFF?

Consultation time with a TimeSlips staff member can be used to assess the creative assets you already have on site. It can be used to develop daily or weekly programs for creative engagement. Or you can devise a community-wide, creative celebration that incorporates all you've learned from TimeSlips.

WHO GETS TRAINED AND WHAT DO THEY LEARN?

It is easy to share our online modules with staff or volunteers - simply add their email addresses into our organizational training system. Some organizations opt for a series of webinars that can be tailored to their communities needs, and then recorded for later viewing. Staff and volunteers learn to infuse creative and meaningful engagement into everyday care relationships and programming. The TimeSlips evidence-based approach ensures that your programming invites meaningful expression and builds a sense of belonging among participants.

WHO HAVE YOU TRAINED?

TimeSlips trains any organization that serves or supports older adults, including:

- Long-term Care Communities - training staff and volunteers in creative engagement techniques that support elders and staff alike.
- Non-Profit and Governmental Senior Service Agencies - training staff and volunteers who offer well-check calls or companion visits to creatively engage elders with a range of abilities
- Meals on Wheels Chapters - embedding creative engagement through meal delivery and phone-based well-checks.
- Arts Organizations or Museums - implementing additional accessible programming that is inspired by the art you are presenting in your community.
